Island City Prison After 24 Hours Fast.

WARDEN WHETS APPETITE

After a Heart to Heart Talk Richards Asks Cooperation in Re-With ilim Her Determination Weakens.

Reba Edelson, the I. W. W. spellbinder, has called off her hunger strike. She was taken from the Tombs to the workhouse on Blackwell's Island yesterday militantly determined not to eat until she got her She stuck rigidly to her programme all day. In the evening, however, she was transferred to the city prison at Long Island City, so that she would be under the eyes of matrons: There, ecording to a statement made at Warder H O Schleth's office, she threw up the sponge and ate a hearty supper. Her therefore, lasted a little over twenty-four hours.

Up to the moment that she sat down to this meal Miss Edelson hadn't eaten a thing since Magistrate Simms gave her Flint of the New York Avenue M. E. the alternative on Friday if furnishing a bond of $300 to keep the peace or going to jail for three months.

Miss Edelson arrived at the Black-

Island workhouse shortly be-nch hour and the sail on the East River put an edge on what was already a gilt edged appetite. A cell was as-signed to her and a few minutes later she was marched with a big squad of her less quent sisters to the mess hall, where she sat down in front of a square meal. Miss Edelson shook her head sadly and murmured that she guessed she didn't want anything, but she was not allowed to go back to her cell until the others had

The call for supper came at ten minutes of 4 and again the young orator was convoyed to the dining hall, where the air was pungent with the fragrance of eat-ables. She glanced at the members of the workhouse set as they smacked their lips, but still declined to eat, saying she her mind and she wouldn't hange it until she was taken out dead Miss Edelson was told on her return to has Edeison was told on her return to her cell that if she felt like having a little nibble before the regular breakfast hour at 7 o'clock this morning her keepers would be glad to give her a bite.

Early in the evening it was decided to send her to Queens city prison, and with the transfer came the young woman's change of heart.
